

My Sharings

I find Brighton very different from Hong Kong. Brighton is quiet and leisure while Hong Kong is a busy city. The lessons in Brighton are less strict than Hong Kong's. It's more free here. But I like Hong Kong education's system more as I think students should be forced to make improvements.

Despite its difference, I learned a lot from this trip. As we need to communicate ^{with} others in English, I can ~~_____~~ speak English more frequently. I remembered that I was nervous at first but it's much better now. I learned that we should be braver. Making mistakes is okay.

I also met many friends, involving Hong Kongers and foreigners through this trip. It's a great and unforgettable memory.

The end. :o)
