

My Sharings

This is my first trip to Britain, my first trip to Europe actually.

When I first came out of the airport, the fresh air has already impressed me although it's chilly here. Their cool Summer is my first impression.

After a few days, I discovered that the lifestyle in Britain is very different from that of Hong Kong.

People here are more relaxed and they don't rush. From the style of our English lesson, I can see this difference.

The views here are so stunning. When I went to the Devil's Dyke, which is my favourite countryside, I was amazed by the scenery and my first reaction was to take pictures. I remember staying outdoor for a long time while others all went indoor to warm themselves.

The Brighton Pier is my second favourite place. The sea was clear and pure. When I went to the pier, I could enjoy myself and forgot all the sadness.

Through this trip, I learnt to be more independent and face problems. We lost our way home on the first time but we still figure it out. This is a very memorable experience. And of course, my English level has improved too, I am able to be confident when I chat with people in English and I learnt a lot of new vocabularies. I look forward to visiting Britain again.
