The tour was better than anything I could ask for. The culture, the places, the history and most importantly, the people. I'm really lucky to have such a nice and fantastic group to have this study tour with.

In the very beginning, I was so scared to talk to everyone. I only kept myself inside my 'circle'. When days past by, I realised if I don't talk to them now, I will never be able to, and I don't want to regret that. At the end, I made quite a few good friends that I will keep in touch with.

This tour gave me a lot of opportunities to do certain things. One, it exposed me more to world, in terms of people and culture. I got to meet people from all over the world, and to understand and know how they are, what they like as well as their studies. Two, it gave me a chance to be alone and independent. I think that made the biggest impact on me. I experienced an independent life where I can only rely on myself. I really liked the freedom and the exploring. Three, to get out my comfort zone. I am more open to people now. I learnt that if you're not even going to try and let people in your life, then how do you know if they're good or bad? Basically, 'never judge a book by its cover.'

One of the best thing about this study tour is the nights where we all stayed up to talk and play games. During these nights, we got to know more about each other and developed new friendships. On the last night, I thought 'I never would've know that I would have made friends and would actually miss them'. I really will miss them. They are different from my Hong Kong friends because we got to know so much about one another in just two weeks. We became a family in two weeks. Writing this on the plane, I'm thinking that this, 2018 Summer, is probably the best summer I have ever had.

I'm really glad I lived in the moment, appreciated everything and took everything in. I don't think any other study tour can beat this.

Thank
You:)
