Reflection

It was my first study tour to New Zealand (Auckland), I definitely had a great and memorable experience in here. My favourite part of the study tour was to have lessons with my buddy. She's a year 12 student and her name is Hannah. She has been so nice to me. I was afraid to know her when I first met her, because she's very cool and I thought she's not an easy going person. However, things turn out differently, Hannah and her friends were so nice to me and even put me in their squad. We shared a lot with each other and also made funny moments.

My buddy, Hannah does not take <sup>any</sup> science subjects which is very different to me. But, I enjoyed her class so much, especially the drama lesson. We played so many interesting games and was lucky to watch them acting in a play. It was literally the best experience I had in school, and what I really appreciate from the students is their creativity. Take drama as an example, they do not need a line or sth, they can make up their own. Also, they're not afraid to express themselves, they volunteer to be <sup>in</sup> part of the play and it comes out so well that I can't even do the same. I had learnt a lot from them and hope we'll still keep in contact.

Thank You :)
